

Talking to Classmates

You reply in broken Chinese, saying you are not fluent in Chinese, blushing immediately.

The students nod and try to ask you in English, "Are you American or Chinese? Are you obese? Do you play football?"

What do you do next?

Continue chatting with them

Say you have to go before you die of embarrassment

The Flyer

Unwilling to try and find the confidence to continue trying to practice your Chinese speaking skills and confront students' questions, you carry on with classes.

During lunch, you see a flyer for a Cultural Club meeting, set for tomorrow afternoon.

Do you go to the meeting?

I guess it's worth giving a try

No.. I'd be so different from those who are actually Chinese