

Meet Jacob!

Actually, you have never had the opportunity to get in touch with you Chinese culture/ background, and you can only speak a little Chinese. Your parents do not know much about Chinese culture either.

Your family does celebrate Chinese New Year, but you don't know much about the holiday itself. It has just been the a way for the family to reunite every year, when his grandparents from China and relatives from the East Coast fly to California, such as how things are for Christmas to your non-religious family.

The Phone Call

One night, your parents call you.
I wonder what it could be about?
